1 MR. DE BOTTARI: I think that there's one thing missing in the DEIS that has to be included. Every engineering document that I have ever worked on or read has always had the good and the bad.

I think it's important for DOE to say this is our project; this is what's good about it. But you are not God; there's got to be something bad. Let the Congress make that decision. Let them do it. Don't you guys take their job. Give them the plusses and the minuses, and let's see what happens.

Thank you.

FACILITATOR LAWSON: I appreciate the comments today and spending the time with us. I would like to thank, in particular, the court reporter, who has put in a long day. We really appreciate her efforts.

[APPLAUSE.]

FACILITATOR LAWSON: As this is the last session, I would just like to say on behalf of Holmes Brown, the other facilitator, and myself, that we really appreciate the cooperation we received from all the audiences and the people who have shown up at all 21 hearings, the Department of Energy, in supporting the people and also supporting our efforts in running these meetings.

Thank you very much for coming. We appreciate it, and this meeting is now adjourned.

(Whereupon the hearing was concluded at 9:30 p.m.)
